

down the poor and less fortunately situated? If we must shed blood, why not that of our oppressors, instead of our brothers in alien lands whom we have never seen?

"Liberty" has ever been the watchword of progress and the banners of revolutions. Let us not forget the tremendous cost at which what little we have won and be resolved to stake our all on making our illusory freedom real. — James H. Dolsen, Maywood, Ill.

THE MAN BEHIND THE SMILE

W. R. ALLMAN.

This dapper young fellow looks as if he might be the perpetrator of sonnets. He is W. R. Allman and his specialty is "The Doings of the Duffs." Allman's humor is kindly, not cynical. He takes a foible and "plays it up" to bring smiles, sometimes even roars, but his caricatures never bite.

FIRE AROUSES HOTEL GUESTS

Fire on the third story of Mussey's billiard room, 67 W. Madison, early today aroused guests at the New Morrison hotel, Hamilton club and the Inter-Ocean hotel. Little damage.

TRIBUNE CRAWFISHES IN THE HENRY FORD SUIT

Is the Tribune beginning to crawl on the name it called Henry Ford?

Tribune lawyers filed answer to Ford's $1,000,000 libel suit in U. S. district court yesterday. Long explanations amounting to an apology and a backdown for calling Ford an "anarchist" and for printing a false story about Ford refusing to re-employ national guard members in his Detroit shops, stand out in the Tribune's answer. Ford wasn't attacked as an individual, but as a type of pacifist who is a menace to the nation's safety, as the Trib now put it. Personally, the silver man is a pretty clean guy, but he's opposed to the Bertie McCormick universal military service scheme.

If the Tribune prints a false story the fellow who gets libeled is expected to deny the story inside of 24 hours. If he doesn't, then he can expect to be lambasted in an editorial. It is stated that "after the expiration of 24 hours from the broadcast publication of the article (of June 23) no denial thereof had been made by the plaintiff."

Instead of an "anarchist," Ford now classes with the Trib as "a serious opponent of genuine patriotism."

POOR MARJORIE! SHE HAS BEEN TOSSED ABOUT HAPHAZARD

Now poor Marjorie Delbridge is mixed up more than ever. The juvenile court took her away from her "colored mammy" and gave her to a group of women connected with the Southern Women's club.

Mrs. Louis Brock, 6825 Cornell av., who has the child, says that she should be allowed to keep her. But the other club members say that the juvenile court gave her to the club to pay the expenses of rearing and educating her.

So Marjorie doesn't know where she's going to live
